

Article Title: ARCHIVE | Criteria | Governments | Sovereigns: Advance Notice Of Proposed Criteria Change: Multilateral Lending Institutions And Other Supranational Institutions Ratings Methodology Data: (EDITOR'S NOTE: —The criteria article "Multilateral Lending Institutions And Other Supranational Institutions Ratings Methodology," was published on Dec. 14, 2018.) S&P; Global Ratings intends to publish its revised criteria for assigning ratings to multilateral lending institutions and other supranational institutions within the next two months. The revised criteria mostly aims at ensuring consistency in the general calibration of the criteria, notably in light of the recent revision to our risk-adjusted capital (RAC) framework (see "Risk-Adjusted Capital Framework Methodology," published July 21, 2017). In accordance with our stated policies, we will review ratings under the new criteria within a reasonable period but no later than six months from the effective date of the new criteria. We will publish an update if our publication plan changes. The current criteria remain in effect until the new criteria are published. The new criteria will be effective upon publication. Until that time, we use the existing criteria to rate and review the ratings for all issuers (see "Multilateral Lending Institutions And Other Supranational Institutions Ratings Methodology," published on Nov. 26, 2012). We do not expect any change to our existing business practices in terms of meeting ratings requests and processing rating actions in a timely manner. After publication of the revised criteria, we will use them when considering ratings actions and when assigning new ratings. We will publish the revised criteria article to our dedicated public website, S&P.com;, as well as to RatingsDirect on S&P; Capital IQ. For more details about our proposed criteria, please see our request for comment, "Request for Comment: Multilateral Lending Institutions And Other Supranational Institutions Ratings Methodology," published on Oct. 11, 2017.
